██████ is now saying the fuel situation is working out and should be fine. They lost one of the ██████ so I am going to work with Josh to get a replacement sent to them.

Sorry I missed you yesterday. I took off early to try and get my daughter an antelope.

██████ left me a message yesterday indicating fuel was still working. I will followup with him to see if we need to pursue anything.

Major,

Trooper [REDACTED] advised me that fuel has been an issue. When they first arrived, there was nothing in place for fuel. They did eventually get access to some small tanks to fill there cars, however he is concerned about the tanks holding enough fuel to keep all the vehicles (sounds like more than 100 units may be using them) fueled throughout the event. He said they are fine for now so I told him I would see if there was a simple solution as a backup.

Please let me know what our options are.
